A BIG BATCH TODAY.

The Police Docket Well Filled With Names

OF THE VICTIMS OF THE POLICE.

Judge Ensminger Does a Good Saturday's Work.

There was a long list of victims awaiting the judicial consideration of Judge Ensminger in police court this morning. The guardians of the city's peace had been unusually lucky in catching offenders last night and there was one little batch of five that had been rescued by the patrol wagon from a most fearful jag that was about to take possession of them on the other side of the river. Not one representative of Africa adorned the docket today.

The first one on the list was Daniel Frisk, but he didn't look as though his name suited him this morning. He has been bothering the police lately, but had promised to leave the city. This promise he seems to have disregarded, for he was loading around as usual last night and the police concluded it was time his case was attended to. It wasn't the first time by several that he had been in court, and he was fully up in the etiquette of the place. It didn't take long for the judge to decide that the city didn't want Daniel so he placed his fine at $25 and suspended the sentence twenty-four hours. This means that if Daniel is not out of the city tomorrow morning he will be the guest of Jailor Woodruff for twenty-five days.

John Hart was in a good deal the same fix. John used to work in the oil wells of Wilson county and he hadn't all the oil off him yet. He wanted to go to Abilene and the judge gave him twenty-four hours to get started in. It didn't take John long to get out of the court room.

Joseph Murray is a misguided young plumber who is out of work and loafing about the country because he hadn't anything else to occupy his time. Joseph's complexion could be considerably improved by the vigorous application of a back plane. Joe's story was a pretty straight one and the judge allowed him the customary full grown day to gather up his belongings and rid the town of his presence.

Jimmie Wilson used to be an Arkansas City section hand, but capital oppressed him six or seven weeks ago and he hasn't done anything since. James was a prohibitionist before he reached Topeka but here the demon drink overtook him and he fell into the arms of the police. James had been drinking, he said, but his breath didn't look like a cider breath and the judge gave him the choice between leaving town in twenty-four hours and contributing $10 to the support of the police department. He took the twenty-four hours.

Henry Streeter had been arrested in North Topeka last night for fighting. The other man would have been arrested too but he had plunged into the river to escape it and succeeded. Henry had deposited $5 for his appearance this morning, but it seems concluded that silence was the better part of evidence for him and so forfeited the five.

Joe Ewing lives on Smoky Row and runs a sort of store. Last evening Frank Lynch, so the evidence goes, went to Joe's place and endeavored to procure two five cent cigars for five cents. Joe remonstrated and endeavored to prove to Frank's satisfaction that as the cigars in question cost thirteen dollars a thousand he could not afford to sell them for less than five cents straight. Upon this Frank said a lot of things that weren't all nice for a gentleman to say and so Joe went around the counter so he could hear better. A crowd gathered, and when the police got there Joe had Frank down and was endeavoring to reason with him. Both of them were arrested. Joe was released after he had told his story in court this morning. Frank pleaded guilty and was fined $10. He left his horse and buggy with the police for security while he went out to "bustle the moon."

The scavenger case of the city against M. E. Low was dismissed in view of the recent decision of the district court affecting the ordinance. Low is charged with having violated.

A slot machine case against P. S. Wise was continued till next Saturday, the 8th, on account of the death of the defendant's child. Johnny Collingsworth's case was next called. The police think Johnny has been guilty of trespassing the limits of the prohibitory law. Several witnesses for the city were examined but without much satisfaction, and as there were other witnesses who could not be reached, it was thought best to continue the case again till Monday morning.

The mills of justice were then shut down for the day.

SANDERS WOULD SETTLE.

The Industrial "General" is Not Anxious to Stand Trial.

The United States district court opens at Wichita on Monday. Two court officers leave tomorrow to be in attendance. Judge Williams of Arkansas will preside.

The case against Gen. J. S. Sanders, the Coxey leader, is set for the 11th. Gen. Sanders is in the city and is preparing to attend the court when his case is called. His attorneys are Baker & Atwood of Leavenworth.

"I do not expect anything from the court," said he. "I have found that they generally hold four aces. I am not doing any worrying about going to jail, however. I guess I can stand it if necessary."

"Gen. Sanders is getting a little nervous," said United States District Attorney Perry. Sanders was at the government building to see Mr. Perry, but did not find him. He saw United States Commissioner E. A. Wagner and inquired if the matter might not be settled in some way.

WILL BE A BETTER GIRL.

A Home and a Cure Found for Pearl Howard, the Unfortunate Girl.

Pearl Howard, the unfortunate girl who was at the police station yesterday suffering from a nameless disease, is better today.

She is no longer at the station. The county physician called to see her yesterday afternoon and declared that her case is not as serious as she herself supposed and that she will be well in a few weeks at most if she is rightly taken care of.

Mrs. Thorpe, Mrs. Van Cleave, president of the Social Purity society, and Dr. Ida C. Barnes called on the girl last evening and this morning she was moved to the home of one of the members of the Social Purity society, where she is being treated by Dr. Barnes, who says she will soon be able to go to work in a place already procured for her.

The girl is delighted at the turn affairs have taken and says that she now feels like being better. She has seldom had anything but abuse before she came to Topeka. The place procured for her is that of a kitchen girl in a respectable family.

A great deal of interest has been manifested in the case since the Journal spoke of it yesterday and several people have voluntarily offered to do what they can for her.

POLICE CHANGES.

Where to Look For a Policeman When You Need One.

There are a few changes taking place in the police department today. Henry Steele, who has been on the night force as sergeant, will be transferred to the day force. The rest of the day force will be assigned as follows:

Norris street, north, Caruthers; Norris street to river, Owen; Fourth street to river, Deeg; Fourth to Sixth, Cunningham; Fourth and Fifth to Santa Fe, Foots; Sixth to Ninth, Davis; west of Kansas avenue, Summers.

Night force—Tim Donovan, sergeant; Norris street north, Parker; Norris to river, Jenkins; Fourth to Sixth, Jones; Fourth and Fifth to Santa Fe, Russell; Sixth to Ninth, Campbell; Ninth street south, Gordon and Lytle; Parkdale, Blumenthal; west of Kansas avenue, Arterbridge and Hicks.

Notice.
All barber shops will close at 9 a. m. sharp on Labor Day; all union journeymen will stop work at the time above named. By order of union.

TOPEKANS IN IT.

They Figure Prominently in the Big St. Louis Depot Opened Today.

Mr. N. A. Adams of the firm of Adams & Chandler, the contractors of the magnificent new depot at St. Louis, which is dedicated today is a Topeka boy.

Some years ago he was employed by the A. T. & S. F. as draughtsman and worked in the building northeast of the Santa Fe depot on Fourth street. Fred Trostail (Mr. Anderson's son-in-law) was chief clerk to B. S. Crocker, assistant engineer, who in turn was under Mr. Kingman (now city engineer) and Adams was employed in Mr. Crocker's office. W. W. Webb, late ticket broker, was in the same office with Mr. Adams. Also Mr. Adams is married to a Topeka girl. The magnitude of the contract, accepted and completed by so young a man, who a half dozen years ago was employed at so small a salary in Topeka is noteworthy.

A Mr. Wm. Archer now in the Santa Fe office had immediate charge of Mr. Adams' work.

Another person whose name is connected with the structure is a lady, who was selected as the model for the fine stained glass window, the central and crowning decoration of the magnificent interior of this great structure. Her name is Mrs. Cora Cochran (nee Haines or Haynes), who lived in Menoken, Shawnee county, Kansas. Much dissatisfaction was expressed by the "natives" that a St. Louis young lady was put thus immortalized, but, as everything else, beauty was to be had in its perfection only in Kansas.

Mr. Adams' picture and life sketch was printed in St. Louis Life during April or May, 1893.

THE "JOURNAL" LEADS.

First Paper in the United States to Print The Santa Fe Circular.

The STATE JOURNAL was the first paper in the United States to print the famous circular of the Santa Fe reorganization committee, which created such a sensation in railroad circles a few days ago.

The Kansas City Journal speaking of this says: "The Atchison railway officials have a joke on the eastern newspapers. The officials sent out, August 1, the circular of the reorganization committee asking for deposits of trust, and giving important information in regard to the business of the road. The New York and other metropolitan papers declined to print the circular except a regular advertising rates. A few days ago the same circular was sent out from Topeka as a news dispatch, and was given place as reading matter by the same papers that refused it nearly a month ago. In order to be sure that your news may find acceptance with the eastern press, be careful to have it well seasoned before sending."

HELEN GOULD'S PLAN.

She Will Beautify the Birthplace of Her Father.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Miss Helen Gould proposes to beautify Roxbury, Delaware county, the birthplace of her father, where she has erected a church to his memory. She has bought a large tract of lowlands surrounded by hills, through which a stream fed by a never-failing spring flows. Several thousand dollars will make of the lowland a beautiful lake and add to the attractiveness of the quaint village as a summer resort. Miss Gould is also interested with others at Roxbury in a movement to build a handsome summer hotel.

TEXAS COTTON CROP.

It is Estimated at 1,824,912 Bales for This Year.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 1.—In its annual review of the commercial year, the Texas places the total cotton crop of Texas for the season of 1893-1894, at 1,824,912 bales. This is based upon the railroad reports of the amount of cotton originating on their lines from July 31, 1893, to August 1, 1894, and includes coast receipts by watercraft and wagon receipts at Houston. The crop of the Indian Territory is placed at 90,450 bales.

SWIMMING FOR WOMEN.

Isabella Proctor Says Fright Is the Cause of Most Cases of Drowning.

[Special Correspondence.]

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 30.—Of all the outdoor amusements in which a woman can indulge swimming is probably the most important. Not only does it bring nearly all the muscles of the body into play and increase the expansive power of the lungs, but possession of the accomplishment frequently decides the question of life and death. While it is rather difficult to learn a good stroke without the aid of a master unless the beginner is a child, a few lessons from a competent teacher are enough to give the pupil a sufficient knowledge of the correct motion to allow her to perfect herself alone.

The ability to swim a long distance without giving out is of great value and is seldom possessed by women, who can swim 10 or 15 feet very well, but then collapse as hopelessly as if they could not swim at all. It is a good plan to swim parallel with the shore in shallow water, and when tired attempt to turn over on the back and float without letting the feet touch the bottom. The power of changing from swimming to floating, and vice versa, is important in deep water, as it gives the swimmer a chance to rest and then resume her progress when she has taken breath. The turning is accomplished by taking the stroke on one side only and straightening out the body as it rolls over. Treading water is most easily learned by slipping into it from swimming. The pupil should swim out a foot or two beyond her depth, gradually shorten and lower the arm stroke and let the feet sink and the leg stroke become alternate. At first the head will sink to the lips, but it will not go under unless confidence is lost and the stroke becomes rapid and confused. After a little the head and shoulders will rise above the surface, but as this practice is rather exhausting it is safer to swim back into shallow water before becoming tired. For the side stroke, which is very rapid and graceful, turn the body slightly, holding the head in a horizontal position, and take a slow up and down stroke with the lower arm, while the upper one is straightened to make a long sweep from the shoulder almost to the feet. The feet may be moved together or alternately. If the pupil wishes to learn to carry another person, she should practice with some one who can swim and can therefore be trusted not to be seized with panic at the first failure. Always begin to practice this in shallow water to avoid the chance of accident.

It is nearly always fright that drowns even nonswimmers, for nature has arranged it so that whatever position the living body occupies in the water, except flat on the face, the breathing apparatus remains above the surface unless forced under by violent and unskillful movement. It is possible to float quite safely with the knees doubled up under the chin and the arms wrapped around them, or with the feet bent back under the body and the hands grasping the toes.

Finally remember that splashing and noisy swimming are the sure signs of the tyro. Breathe through the nostrils, take a slow stroke, keep the hands under water and aim to move as silently as a fish.

JUDGE HORTON DONATES.

The Supreme Judge Contributes to the Relief of a Destitute Little Girl.

The 13-year-old girl who last week applied to Mrs. Thorpe for work, and whose story was published in the JOURNAL at the time, now has a position and three other positions that had been offered to her since the publication of her story have been given to as many other girls similarly situated.

Among the several contributors to the girl's relief, one of the most prominent is Chief Justice Horton, who sent one dollar with a kind note.

"Mrs. Thorpe—Please give the enclosed dollar to the young girl who visited you yesterday for work and who was referred to in yesterday's JOURNAL as supporting herself and mother."

Yours, etc., ALBERT H. HORTON.
Besides the money several donations of clothes have been received. There are a good many other cases of a similar nature that Mrs. Thorpe has cognizance of.

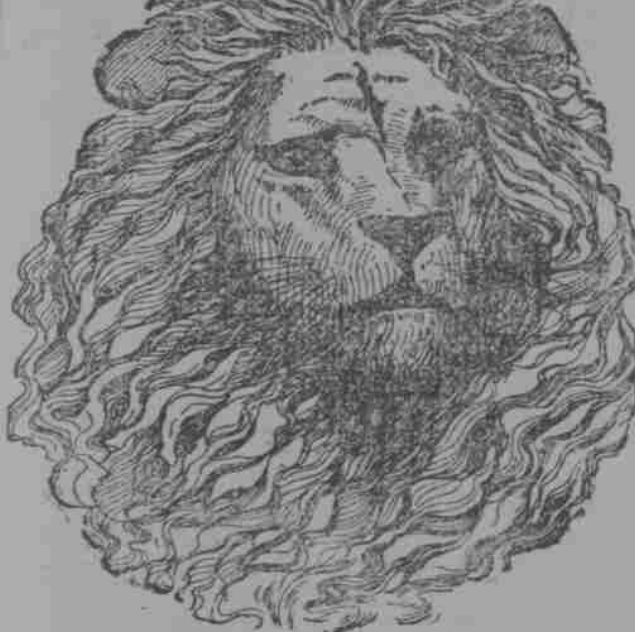

Born.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Harmon, 706 Lincoln street, are the parents of a daughter born Wednesday morning.

GLADSTONE'S SENSATION.

His Contribution to Irish Parliamentary Fund Stirs Things Up.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Gladstone-Tweedmouth contribution of 100 pounds each to the Irish parliamentary fund, is causing a sensation in all political parties. Baron Tweedmouth in forwarding his contribution from Scotland wrote Mr. Justin McCarthy chairman of the Irish parliamentary party, saying that he had received a note from Mr. Gladstone enclosing a check for one hundred pounds to be forwarded to the fund. The Unionists are making much of the fact that none of the money which is said to be pouring into the Irish coffers, is going to the evicted tenants.

The Globe, this afternoon, commenting upon these contributions, says that a double effect will be felt from this subsidy. It will keep the Parnellites in good temper and the evicted tenants will become more exasperated than ever. The Globe also says:

"If Mr. Gladstone and Baron Tweedmouth had taken this action without consulting the premier, or Sir William Harcourt, it savors of springing a mine upon them."

DUBLIN, Sept. 1.—The Evening Herald (Parnellite) in addition to its statement commenting on the donations of Mr. Gladstone and Baron Tweedmouth to the Irish parliamentary fund, that neither Keogh nor Sadleir sold themselves so cheaply as the Parnellites have done and says:

"It is the process of treachery to Ireland and divided among the Whig members representing 18 pounds, 25 shillings purchase money for each of them."

WARD M'ALLISTER HOME.

He Says the Vanderbills Have Become Reconciled and Are Entertaining a Prince.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The World contains the following: Ward McAllister and his brother, Rev. F. M. McAllister, arrived from England on the Lucania yesterday. Mr. McAllister said regarding the alleged domestic difficulties in the Vanderbilt family: "I believe that the Vanderbills have become reconciled and are at the present moment entertaining some prince at their house on the Thames."
